WHERE THE DEMOCRATS HAVE A

party in the Old Dominion.

"There is really no republican party in Virginia," remarked Mr. Reed, in the lobby of the Metropolitan last evening. "True, the G. O. P. has in the State a few of its votaries, true to its rocked-ribbed principles, and the feed trough. The elect few welcome within their search precipets, just enough to fill their sacred precincts just enough to fill the offices and be useful to each other.

It takes extra fine hustling powers these civil service days to force admittance in this little band of office-holding patriots. The office trust is barreled up good, and AND PLANING MILL. the bosses sit judiciously, firmly, and serenely on the bung hole." The leaders of the party in Virginia—and they are all colonels—received a jar the other day that shook them from centre to circumference when Represen-tative Babcock, chairman of the republican Congressional committee, told them to get out and hustle to pay for their jobs. That's the part that doesn't pay. It costs money, and might accidentally draw recruits. Recruits cause competition, and competion is strenuous.

"There was a time when we had a party in Virginia, a party that made things lively for the democrats, but of late it seems the party has dwindled to only a few office-holders. Think of it; no republican candidate for Congress in six districts! No wonder Chairman Babcock felt disgusted with the office-holding organization.

"Oh, yes; I am a republican, but I'm something like the boy's dad. The preacher asked a small boy what church his father belonged to. The boy replied: 'He's a Baptist, but ain't working at it much now.' And that's my case."—[Washington Times.

SAGE COMBATS MORGAN-Russell Sage in a recent interview referred to a published statement quoting J. Pierpont Morgan as saying that the era of great trusts had just begun and that more gigantic corporations are stored in the near future, some of which may overshadow the steel trust. Mr. Sage said: "Whether Mr. Morgan said that or not, combinations of all industries are a memace to true government. Not only so, but they are the corporators of the so, but they are the oppressors of the people." "What will be the result of such an era?" asked a reporter. "In such an event the American people will
